

Episode #012 A Talk With Maggie Flanigan Pt. 1

Charlie talks with his mentor, master teacher Maggie Flanigan. Charlie and Maggie have a unique relationship which now spans over two decades, evolving from teacher/student into a deep artistic mentorship. This journey has lead Charlie to now being the owner and caretaker of one of the best acting studio's in the United States, the Maggie Flanigan Studio. They discuss Maggie's path towards moving to NYC to pursue an acting career, and her transition into becoming one of the greatest acting teachers of her generation. Maggie talks about being brushed off by Sandy Meisner, her mentorship under Bill Esper, and her unwavering commitment to the craft of acting. Please follow CBP on Instagram @creatingbehavior and visit CBP's website <https://www.creatingbehaviorpodcast.com> for all content links.

- Sandy Meisner

- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cBJMZ4COkMw>

- Bill Esper

- <https://www.hollywoodreporter.com/news/william-esper-dead-eminent-acting-teacher-was-86-1180290>

- The Good Woman of Szechwan by Bertolt Brecht

- <https://www.britannica.com/topic/The-Good-Woman-of-Setzuan>