

Episode #026 How Do You Act Drunk?

In this solo episode, Charlie offers some insight and advice on how to approach impediments. How do you create pain, and various forms of intoxication? They come up all the time in acting, and your ability to do a really good drunk, to know how to believably create pain, will help add believability and credibility to your acting. Charlie also offers his thoughts on our post election challenges, along with some reflection on the life of the late paraplegic dancer David Toole, and the amazing accomplishment by the rock climber Emily Harrington.
