

Episode #027 My Talk with Kiera Allen

This week Charlie shares his conversation with Kiera Allen, a former student, and now the star of Hulu's original film Run with the great Sarah Paulson. Kiera is the first wheelchair user since 1948 to star in a major studio movie. They talk about the importance of this ground breaking film, the redefining of what a hero can look like, and what she learned from working with one of the best actors in the business. A great chat with a truly inspirational young woman, who has now become a role model for inclusiveness and diversity.
